

1. The cost of the system is a function of the power of the system. The cost of the system is a function of the power of the system. The cost of the system is a function of the power of the system.

30

FIG. 2

1. The cost of a radio segment is a function of the number of segments, the number of channels, and the number of frequencies.

FIG. 3

1. The first part of the graph shows the relationship between the total radio segment cost and the composite power. The cost increases as the power increases, but the rate of increase decreases as the power increases.

FIG. 4

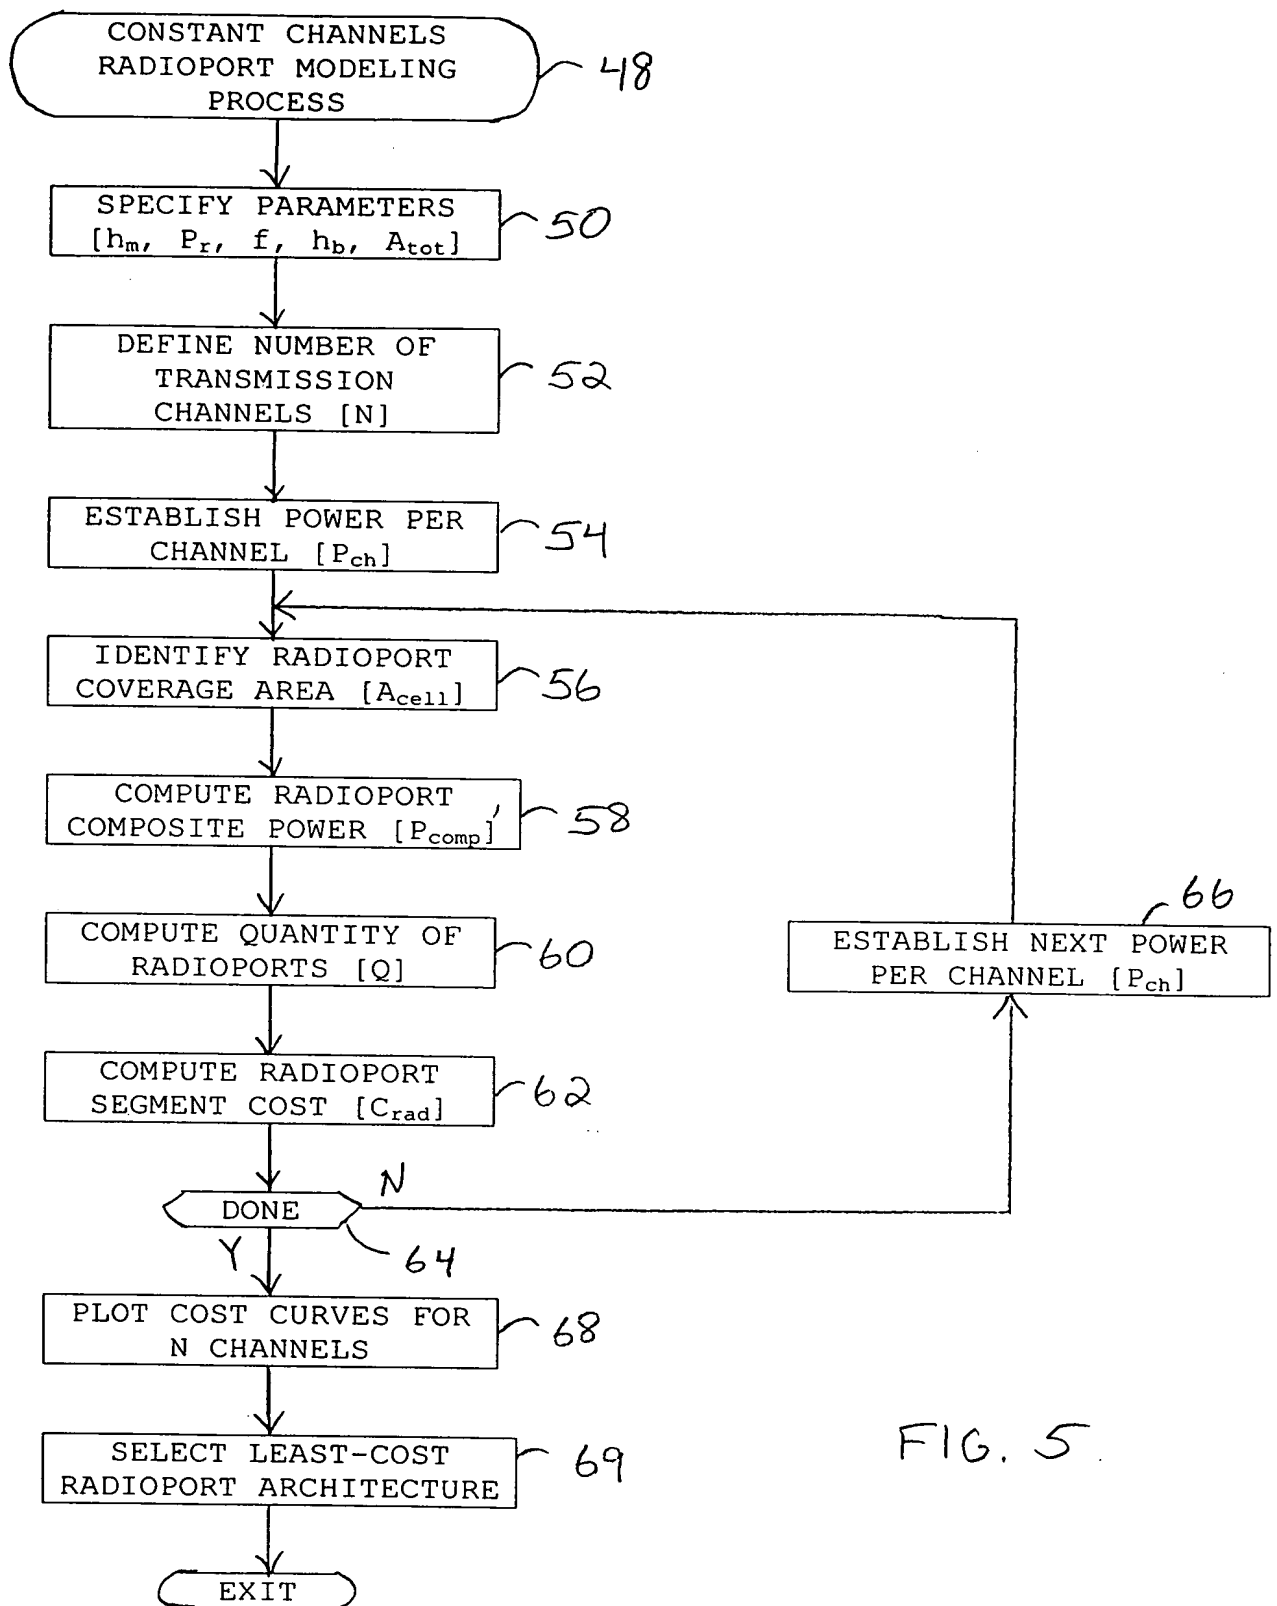

FIG. 5.

FIG. 6

70

FIG. 7

74

FIG. 8

